

THE CHINESE REVOLUTION'S VERY ALARMING ATTITUDE

REPUBLIC HAS BEEN PROCLAIMED AND TROOPS JOIN REBEL FORCES.

CITIES BURNED

Entire Situation is Almost Beyond the Control of the Government Already.

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—Advises to the Chinese Daily World says the revolutionists in China have declared it a republic and elected Li Yuan Hing as president.

At Hankow. London, Oct. 13.—The British minister in Peking reports that Hankow is in the hands of the revolutionists, but says the foreigners are safe.

Scene of Desolation. Hankow, Oct. 13.—This is a city of desolation today. All night incendiary fires burned throughout the native quarters and it was a night of terror for the population. There was a massacre of the Manchurian families which left a large number of dead on the streets.

Great Crisis. Peking, Oct. 13.—China today faces an unprecedented crisis. The opinion is gaining ground that the fate of the ruling dynasty hangs in the balance. Peking itself is threatened. Chang and Yo Chow have already fallen into the hands of the rebels.

Official Word. Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—The state department today received the following cablegram from Secretary Williams in charge of the American embassy at Peking in Hankow. American seem to be safe. Fifteen thousand men composing three of the army corps have joined the rebels. Communication with Hankow is cut off.

Is Widespread. Peking, Oct. 13.—The revolution that within a week has flamed through the central provinces of China, has spread now to the north and from all parts of the empire come reports of bloodshed and anarchy. The capital itself is threatened and the government, overwhelmed by the fury of the storm, is for the most part helpless.

In Four Provinces. Communication with Hankow, Wu Chang and Hanyang, the three great cities on the Yangtze river, where the revolution is centered, has been destroyed, but not before the startling news has been flashed across the wires that Hankow was in flames and that incendiaryism and massacre were "marching" hand in hand across the four neighboring provinces.

Rebels Desert. Three army corps of 15,000 men in all, have deserted to the rebels and the whole imperial army is seething with sedition. The torch of revolt has blazed today in Manchuria where 3,000 persons are reported slain, and bands of armed men are wandering through the country pillaging and looting. Thus far there has been no attack on foreigners. This is, however, feared.

Foreign Gunboats. A flotilla of foreign gunboats is anchored off Hankow and a force of marines has been landed. The troops are openly mutinous and the officers do not dare give them orders. The government has shown its weakness by offering amnesty to all rebels.

Much Excitement. Intense excitement was caused here today by the report from Hankow that Li Yuan Hing, one of the chief commanders of the Chinese army, has deserted to the rebels and been elected president of the provincial republic. It is believed that almost the entire army will follow.

Fear Massacre. Tokio, Japan, Oct. 13.—Fear of a massacre of foreigners in China as a result of the great uprising against the Manchurian dynasty is growing hourly, according to advices received today from Shanghai and Peking.

Rush Preparations. Tripoli, Oct. 13.—Preparations are being rushed rapidly for the military expedition to the interior. The Italians have 22,000 troops at their disposal and the officers are anxious to move the men as soon as possible on account of the appearance of the cholera in the camp.

Turks Well Supplied. The Turks are reported to be occupying a strongly intrenched position not far from the city and to have in their possession thirty cannons.

Serious News. London, Oct. 13.—The most serious news has reached here from Constantinople where every indication points to an impending revolution with consequences of tremendous importance to the rest of Europe.

Young Turks. The Young Turks, by far the most powerful and best organized party in the empire, are committed irrevocably to war and it is believed are equally determined to depose the Sultan.

Spells Defeat. The Italian advance has been checked and the Italian troops repulsed with heavy loss by the Turkish garrison, which is entrenched outside Tripoli, according to a dispatch received here from Constantinople. The Italians are said to have lost 1,000 men and wounded 1,000 more. No Turkish casualties are reported.

Womack related a graphic story of the desertion of the democrats who changed their votes from Stringer to Lorimer.

"I was amazed when Senators Joley and Holstlaw voted for Lorimer," said Womack.

After An Hour's Questioning, Defense Challenged Z. T. Nelson, Jurymen.

PARTY OF GIRLS GO TO MADISON TODAY

Will Be the Guests of Miss Clara Grubb at Chaddbourne Hall.

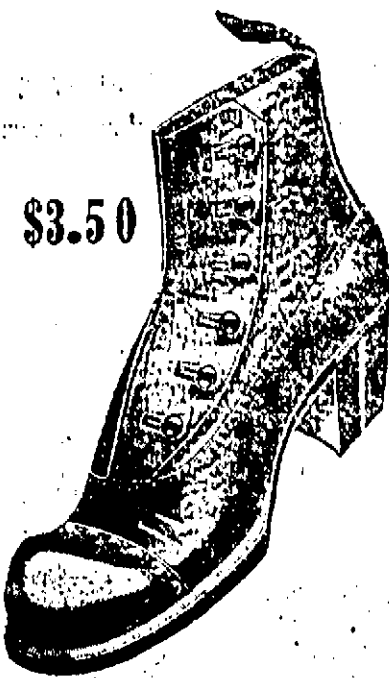

Five Janesville girls, accompanied by Miss Lucille Cuyler as chaperone, left this afternoon in the S. L. Carlo auto for Madison where they will be the guests of Miss Clara Grubb at Chaddbourne hall today and tomorrow. They will attend the Ripon-Wisconsin football game and return to Janesville, Saturday evening or Sunday morning. The members of the party were: Misses Kathryn Carlo, Margaret and Lois Thorne, Grace Estes and Doris Amerpohl.

Objection Made.

The examination of veniremen continued today in the famous McNamara trial. The prosecution registered and W. S. Harp took dinner at the Judge Brodwell's ruling that the widest latitude will be allowed in determining whether prospective jurors are opposed to labor unions. It is hoped that a second panel of veniremen can be drawn Monday.

Court Scenes. When court opened H. G. Quickenbush was drawn to it the twelfth lot in the jury box and Attorney Davis then resumed the examination of Z. T. Nelson, the venireman he was questioning when court adjourned Wednesday afternoon. After a good deal of fencing Nelson admitted that he was prejudiced against labor unions and it would require strong evidence to remove his opinion.

VARIETY OF TOPICS DISCUSSED AT CLUB SMOKER LAST NIGHT

Discussion of Possible Purchase of the Water Works by the City Not Talked of Though.

Members of the Industrial and Commercial Club who attended the smoker in the Elks' Lodge rooms last evening with the expectation of hearing a heated discussion of the plans for the purchase of the Janesville Water Company's plant by the city were disappointed. Otto Oestreich, chairman of the evening's program, explained that the committee had discussed this question and as it was to be the topic for discussion at the coming meeting of the Twilight Club, the question of the city's welfare would be taken up last evening.

This topic proved interesting but most of the evening's discussion was taken up in talking over a proposition which was made to the club recently relative to the bringing of a large institution to this city as a permanent addition. The pros and cons of this were discussed and it was finally decided to make the concern a bona fide offer to locate in Janesville. In the line of welfare talk, Rev. Joseph Hazen, pastor of the Baptist church, was the first speaker called and responded with a talk on the material and moral aspects of a city as inducements to manufacturers and business men in search of a new location.

"The city," he said, "must first of all be a pleasant place to live in; it must have good educational advantages, the moral atmosphere must be healthy and the necessities of life obtainable at a reasonable price. It should be a good place in which to bring up a family. The public service, light and water and transportation should be satisfactory.

"In most of these aspects I have seen a remarkable improvement since I first came to Janesville. The condition of the streets is much better, and the street car service very much improved. I am confident that the lines along which the club is working are the very ones which will result in attracting new industries and new citizens."

"Janesville Real Estate" was the subject of F. L. Clemens the second speaker on the program. He was of the impression that Janesville real estate had advanced about as much as all other property in the last fifteen years. Local business property has proved to be a good investment. Residential property had not fared so well. Rents were lower than in almost any other city of its size in the West. Old property had suffered through the depreciation of street assessments and also from the increasing demand for new property equipped with modern improvements. There was not much improved property to supply the demand but the returns of the investor were inadequate. Janesville as a commercial center was very stable because there was never any radical change in the laboring population.

The remainder of the evening following the talks of Messrs. Hazen and Clemens, was devoted to the hearing and the discussion of the report of the committee which just returned from Davenport, Iowa, where they went in the interests of the club. The members of this committee were F. L. Clemens, Louis Levy, Amos Reiberg, P. E. Lane and H. H. Bliss. Attention was called by Chairman Oestreich that no one had been secured by the program committee to present the topic of the retail condition of the city before the meeting. President Lavojoy spoke briefly of the new credit system and its benefit to the retailers of Janesville.

Tumblers and Grace.

There was rejoicing at the city mission over the news that the tight-rope walker to whom the missionary had preached repentance in vain had become a tumbler in the circus. "There is hope for him now," the missionary said. "There is more professed religion among the tumblers than any other specialty in the circus. Why they should hold a monopoly on spirituality is a mystery to the church, for there is no more danger in tumbling than in trapeze and tight-rope performances."—New York Press.

A good sized delegation of Edgerton people attended the Columbus day race meeting in Janesville, yesterday. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glave, a seven and one-half pound baby girl was born yesterday. It now is Grandpa Henderson.

Miss Frances Keegan entertained the force of lady clerks of the department store at her home on Washington street last evening at a seven o'clock three-course supper. The event was enjoyed to the full limit, consisting as it did of the choicest viands. The remainder of the evening was spent in games.

NERVOUS DEBILITY SYMPTOMS ARE PAIN

Stomach Trouble, Uneasy Sleep, Nervousness, Little Energy, No Vitality, etc., Tona Vita Brings Back Health.

The country is filled with half sick, worn out, nervous people. The cause is nervous debility and it is produced by the strain and worry of modern life.

The symptoms of nervous debility are stomach trouble, uneasy sleep, nervousness, little energy, or vitality, constipation, poor circulation, bad memory, cold feet, weak back and susceptibility to coughs and colds. A man or woman afflicted with this debilitated condition has little happiness, as the trouble always produces a mental depression that causes the sufferer to look on the gloomy side of life, and be dissatisfied with the present and have small hope for the future.

Anything to be successful, should add to the happiness of the human race. No medicine ever before sold in the United States has been so tremendously successful as the wonderful new tonic "Tona Vita." The reason is plain. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of discouraged, "rundown" men and women.

Are you in this rundown debilitated condition? Do you tire easily, sleep poorly and feel half dead most of the time? If you are you can get immediate relief and renew your ability to fight life's battles by letting this great Tonic build you up and restore your strength. Don't drag around feeling miserable and hopeless another day. You will positively be astonished how quickly "Tona Vita" will start you on the road to health. The tonic is sold with the distinct understanding that it must renew your health, or the price is refunded.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is an instant remedy to "Tona Vita." It is to be used in cases of chronic constipation. There is no plant known to modern medicine so thoroughly reliable and harmless as rhubarb. It is nature's own laxative and instead of straining the intestines, like other drugs, tones them up and gives them new strength. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is the safest possible laxative for children and they like the taste. It should be in every household.

These two great preparations are sold in Janesville by The Smith Pharmacy.

Strength Misplaced.

"There are some strong features mentioned in Mrs. Faki's, boarding house advertisement." "Then I'll bet she put in the coffee and left out the butter."

Necessary to Support Life. As a rule, two productive acres of land are required for each inhabitant of the country.

racers were greatly delayed and had to be cut from five to three heats in order to finish before dark.

Of all the races the most exciting was the most exciting to watch. One Beloit horse, one from Janesville, five from Beloit, and two from Edgerton. But three cars entered the light class ten-mile auto race and one of them did not finish as a result of engine trouble.

Owing to the necessity of using the same harness on several horses the

There were six entries in the 2:30 class, of which "Phil Slog" won the honors. "Gentle Boy" was forced to withdraw on account of lameness after securing first place in the first two heats. Schindley's "Boxer A" won second in heat one, third in heat two, and second in heat three.

Although the first two heats of the 2:45 class race was very unexciting the last heat was more interesting. Three Beloit horses and one from Janesville competed. "Baby B" belonging to Bishop of Beloit, came in ahead in all three heats. "Robbie S" won two heats and a third.

Between the heats the auto race was run in which Herman Prielpf with "Stub" Parker as mechanician, finished second in his Overland, and Harold Campbell, with another Buick, was forced to drop out at the seventh lap on account of engine trouble. At no time during the race was Prielpf in any danger of being passed by his opponents and made the ten miles in 13 minutes and 35 seconds. Second place was won by Stewart in 13:47. The five-mile race for larger cars had to be called off.

CARDINALS DEFEAT REDS IN TWO GAMES

Continuation of the Interesting Bowling Series Held Between City Teams.

Three more interesting games were bowled last night in the city league at the Leffingwell & Hockett alleys and were between the Cardinals and Reds. The Cardinals rushed things from the start and took the first two games with a comfortable margin in their favor but the Reds got down to business in the third and put the large score on their side of the board. The men were a little green as yet and no large scores were bowled but later in the season both the Reds and Cardinals will show, so they say, the other teams how easy it is to bowl a score on the far side of 2000.

Gibson, as the score below indicates, rolled the largest score, by bowling 181.

Tomorrow afternoon the delegates will listen to an address by Mrs. Edith Smith Davis, national superintendent of scientific temperance instruction in schools and colleges.

Bargain Values That Make Good

The free and careless use of the word "Bargain" has robbed it of much of its value as a stimulant to business. Whenever we use it in our advertising we do so with full appreciation of its real meaning and strive doubly hard to "make good" with the values. People have come to look with suspicion (which is often justified) upon the "Bargain Sale" and therefore we use extra care that

THE CHARACTER OF THIS STORE

Shall not suffer through the disappointment of customers with the satisfying worth of its bargain offerings. One false statement, a misrepresentation of facts or exaggeration of comparative figures opens the door wide to loss of confidence. A loss which is the forerunner of business disaster. You can trust The Big Store to always "make good" its facts and figures whenever it uses the word "BARGAIN" in its advertisements.

RELATES REVOLTING ACCOUNT OF CRIME AGAINST YOUNG GIRL

George Thompson Confesses in Presence of Judge and District Attorney to Grave Statutory Offense—Also Admits he Was Never Married to Mrs. Ella Wilsing.

In the face of revolting a poultry of from five to thirty-five years, George Thompson, held in a charge of criminal to children, yesterday afternoon made an alleged confession in the presence of Judge Field and District Attorney Dunwiddie to a revolting crime upon the twelve-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wilsing. He also admitted that he had never been married to Mrs. Wilsing, and that they had lived together as husband and wife since April 19, of this year. Mrs. Wilsing admitted that both the confessions were true and that the crime against her daughter was with her knowledge and consent. Thompson waived his right to an examination and said he was ready to be given his punishment, but in view of the gravity of the case and the severity of the penalty possible, Judge Field decided that Thompson should be given a trial. Attorney Cunningham has been appointed attorney for his defense and the date of trial set for next Tuesday. In default of trial Thompson will await his trial in jail.

Mrs. Wilsing also waived examination and will receive sentence in a day or two. A petition has been filed with the Probate Court to send her children to the state home at Sparta. Mrs. Wilsing expressed herself as quite willing that the children be taken, and that she be punished if Thompson was not prosecuted.

The hearings at which the confessions of Thompson and Wilsing were received, were held in the privacy of the office of Judge Field. Thursday, and only the witnesses, District Attorney Dunwiddie, and others directly concerned were present. No testimony was taken in open court and those who came expecting to witness a public trial were disappointed.

ALCOHOLIC PATIENT IS CARED FOR BY POLICE.

Physician Called to Police Station Last Night to Attend Frequent Man Suffering From Prolonged Sprue.

A physician was called to the police station last night to attend a man giving the name A. J. Layton, who was suffering from the effects of long continued drinking. He was picked up on Milwaukee street last night and became violent after his arrival at the station. Four men were required to hold him down. This morning Layton appeared in the Municipal court and told his story. He said he was on his way from Freepoint to Orfordville, where he was going to stay with some relatives until he recovered from the effects of his drinking. He appeared to be so intoxicated that the policeman did not take him to the hospital but instead of to the station, and claimed that he and been robbed of $35 in one of the alleys. Layton was sent to Orfordville this morning, his fare being paid by a "saloon-keeper acquaintance."

James Dugan first pleaded not guilty to a charge of intoxication and after changing his plea. Arthur Genereux, a cigar maker, was sentenced to two days imprisonment in the county jail. James Woods, who claimed he had no home and worked wherever he found a job, paid a fine of $1 and costs.

REDUCTION MADE IN EVANSVILLE'S RATE OF CITY TAXATION

Council in Meeting Last Night Lowered Rate From Nine Mills to Seven and a Half Mills.

Evansville, Oct. 13.—A business meeting was held by the city council last night in the city hall. The rate of taxation in 1911 was nine mills, but it has been reduced to seven and a half mills for 1912.

No Sewer Taxation.
The sewerage question was very fully discussed and the council decided to levy no special tax for sanitary sewerage for the coming year. It was found that when this year's sewerage work is finished there will be about $1,000 in the sewerage fund. English Hermit's Strange Life.
There died the other day, at the age of eighty-two, a hermit named Lewis, who for the last 20 years has existed on shellfish and lived in his covered trawler, beached at Lower Fishguard. He never varied his diet, except when shellfish was scarce, and then he substituted bread and cheese. To within two days of his death he was in robust health.—London Answers.

Life's Irony.
The tragedy of life was played again when Bernard Goenewich, a young Russian inventor, was killed by the poisonous fumes of a secret process of staining glass that was to make him millions.

U. S. Department of Agriculture. WEATHER BUREAU WILLIS L. MOORE, Chief

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The atmospheric pressure continues to be high over the greater part of the country, but a trough has formed over the plains and the Missouri valley, which is accompanied by cloudiness and local showers and thunderstorms. Light rains have also continued falling on the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts. A disturbance off the North Atlantic coast has caused high winds at New York and Eastport. The weather is clear and cool in the low or lake region, frost forming at Toledo, and temperatures of freezing and slightly above being recorded around Lake Huron. It is also cold in the plateau region, where the temperature fell to 26 and 30 degrees this morning.
In this vicinity the weather will be unsettled and cloudy, but without much probability of rain tonight and Saturday. The temperature will not change much.

The Only Authorities.
One preacher declares that childless wives ought to be shipped out of the country. Then who would write for the newspapers, telling mothers how to take care of their babies?—Toledo Blade.

Friendly Confidences.
"What did my man say to you when you came in?" Inquired Johnny of his friend who had come to tea. "She said she was very pleased to see me." "I'm glad," said Johnny in a relieved tone. "Cos she said this morning she hoped you wouldn't come."—Stray Stories.

is being recommended by many of our best physicians, and in fact is being used by them on their own tables, to the exclusion of the white flour.

The WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR when made into bread, carrying as it does, a certain percentage of the waste of the wheat, is beneficial, furnishing the natural stimulus to the peristaltic action of the intestines, the imperfection of which often leads to constipation and its train of ills.

We grind our own WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR by the old stone process and guarantee it to be pure and wholesome.

When you order BLUE CROSS WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR you can rest assured that you are getting the best that is on the market.

Deep Mourning.
The manager of the theater racked his brain in vain. "We must do something," he repeated, bitterly. "People will expect us to do something to show respect to the proprietor, now that he is dead." "Shall we close for the night of the funeral?" suggested the assistant stage manager. "With this business? You're a fool, laddie, a fool. No; put the chorus in black stockings." And it was over.

Wanted Only Important Facts.
An American speeding over the continent of Europe in his automobile asked of his chauffeur: "Where are we?" "In Paris," shouted the man at the wheel, and the dust flew. "Oh, never mind details," irritably screamed the American millionaire; "I mean what continent?"

Loquacity.
Gratiano speaks an infinite deal of nothing, more than any man in all Venice; his reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff; you shall seek all day ere you find them; and when you have them, they are not worth the search.

Grows in Deep Water.
The greatest known depth at which any green plant grows in fresh water is reached by a moss called Thamnum laniatum, which has been lately discovered by Prof. F. A. Ford, 200 feet below the surface of the Lake of Geneva.

The Last Time.

The Fifteen Dollar Special

At $15 we're rather proud of what we can do for you in suits or overcoats. Most stores would require $20 to do anywhere near as much. All wool, every thread of them, tailored right and cut right to fit right. Great values in every way. Best value in the lot is a blue serge. Costs us more than we ought to pay for a suit that sells at $15, costs you less than you've ever paid for an equal value. This $15 special is obtainable here only. They're made for us exclusively and bear our name and mark: Rehberg Royal Suits. Ask for a Royal Suit.

At $20 You won't have to judge values when you buy here—we've done that when assembling our displays. Everything in this line we show is worth seeing, buying and wearing. Prove to yourself how true this is of fall suits and overcoats at $20.

Rehberg's Shoes

THERE'S a good deal to be said about the pleasure you get in buying shoes as well as in wearing them; sometimes merely the way you're treated in a store, the courtesy, the spirit of service, the liberal way of doing business, makes a pair of shoes fit better, look better and give greater pleasure every time you wear them. That's one of the "values" you get at this store that you don't pay for.

WOMEN'S SHOES

In silk, velvet, suedes and tans, short stubby foreparts, wide toes, extremely dressy and comfortable at the same time. The new 10-button Aero Boot has taken Janesville by storm; it's the most popular shoe we've ever had for women, $3.00 and $4.00.

MEN'S SHOES

Tan is the strongly demanded leather this fall. We've a multitude of hand some, roomy, comfortable lasts in several shades of tan. Blacks, too, for the man who wants them. Bostonians and Kneelands give most value, in every instance. Put your feet into a pair, $3.50 and $4.00.

Easy Divorce or Difficult Marriage.

THE marital troubles of a certain well known writer and socialist have been aired and discussed in the papers recently quite widely. Although some deem such publicity for affairs of this kind, a thorough discussion and throwing out of the subject of marriage and divorce may not at present be harmful. The more the masses of people can be brought to think upon these subjects and to think upon them deeply, the better. For at present, they need serious thought, if order is to be brought out of chaos.

For that the great matter of marriage and divorce is in rather a chaotic condition no one will deny. There is every shade of opinion in regard to it, from that of Bernard Shaw and his followers, who seem to believe that a person who wants a divorce should have it for the asking without giving any reasons, to those who do not believe in divorce at all. Though every one has a right to his opinion, perhaps by much discussion, some just and wise standard which will be accepted by all will eventually be evolved.

Discussion will, at any rate, arouse the great mass of people who as a rule complacently accept conventional views and rarely think below the surface. For there always comes a time when it is necessary for the unconventional to have a hearing. It is the unconventional that has always brought about reforms, and so these unconventional views of marriage that are being brought forward should at least be given a hearing, and perhaps from them a better adjustment of the marriage and divorce question will be forthcoming.

The wife of the man who is suing for divorce has given to the public her opinions of marriage. To the conventional, they may seem startling, though to those acquainted with the writings of G. Bernard Shaw, they have a familiar ring. Like Shaw, she thinks divorce should be granted for the asking. And she says furthermore that woman often blinds herself to man because of economic conditions.

Although, as has been said, every one has a right to his opinion, many will take exception to these statements. The woman who will marry a man for economic reasons, or in other words, for money, a living, or a home, surely deserves all she gets. If we regard marriage as it should be regarded, or if it is not what it professes to be, there is only one reason for entering into it. If a woman enters it as a matter of business, she should carry it through in that spirit; and if she has made a bad bargain she should not try to squint out of payment.

As to making divorce easier, would it not be better for the community, to make marriage more difficult? Marriage is, or ought to be, a serious matter, not on a par with taking a position, which, if it is not liked, can be thrown over. If marriage is to be placed on this light and trivial basis, surely conditions will grow worse instead of better.

The one seeking a divorce says of course it is nobody's business but his own, and that he should not be compelled to tell the public his reasons for desiring it. If every one lived to himself, this sort of reasoning might hold good. But more and more are we living the community life; more and more must we consider the common good rather than the individual preference. And in the present state of society, the loose, easy marriage surely is not for the common good. If we were in that far advanced state, which it is prophesied by some we will come to, when the government cares for and brings up the children, as is done in a little colony on the Pacific coast, then divorce for the asking would work no harm. But in our present state of enlightenment, or unenlightenment, it would seem almost to many of us to spell chaos.

There are some specific reasons why a wife would not want to live with her husband or the husband with the wife. These are just. But if these were the only grounds upon which divorce could be secured, perhaps then people would go into marriage with that care which the seriousness of the step deserves. They would study each other more carefully, to see if real grounds for congeniality were there, to make sure the attraction they felt was not a mere surface attraction that would pass, but rather, was based on lasting qualities. They would look into marriage and thoroughly understand the responsibilities they were taking upon themselves. It would be no jumping off a precipice, or a leap in the dark, as it is now facetiously called. But it would be the assuming of one of the most serious responsibilities of life with a full understanding of what one was doing. And if undertaken in this spirit and with the feeling that would accompany it in such a case, the divorce question would soon settle itself. Right-minded people, of course, enter into marriage in this way. But laws are not made for the people who will do right without laws. It is those who rush into marriage without thinking, and then rush for the divorce court, who need to be made to pause and give some serious consideration to the importance of the step they are about to take.

The Kitchen Cabinet

THE thing that the world is waiting for is a good cook.

COOKERY A FINE ART.

Cookery should be a fine art, but, alas, in many kitchens it is thought of as drudgery, and put out of the way as soon as possible. The development and progress of cookery has gone hand in hand with civilization. The more enlightened and intelligent a people, the more attention they pay to cookery. It is an art as old as history and its evolution is an interesting study as the evolution theory is to the scientist.

Did you ever think that more people are spending all or part of their time cooking than in any other occupation?

The importance of food selection and preparation is the most important single factor on which rests the health, happiness and prosperity of mankind.

Cookery like all other arts, has its laws of proportion, or right values, its laws of harmony and contrast.

Cookery appeals to the sense of taste as music appeals to the hearing and as "Suns and skies and clouds of June" appeal to the sight.

An educated sense of taste is as highly gratifying as the indulgence of any of the senses and as necessary for good digestion and physical as well as mental well being.

The simple and fundamental study of cookery should be the aim of every young woman. She should know when she has given her family a well-balanced meal, how to feed the sick, the aged as well as the infants. She should know that climate, age, sex and health should enter into the arrangements for the menus.

To serve a meal that is attractive to the eye, satisfying to the taste and sufficiently nourishing to the body, food that is digestible and the cost of which is kept within reasonable limits, is an accomplishment that any young woman may be proud of attaining.

Such accomplishment comes only by hard work, study and application, but it is worth the price many times over.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

HOW WARREN BRAVED THE BRITISH LION.

By A. W. MACY.

It was the 5th of March, 1775. The people of Boston were gathered in Old South Church, in memory of the Boston Massacre five years before. Some British officers had publicly declared that if any man dared speak of the massacre that day his life would pay the forfeit. Joseph Warren's soul had taken fire at such a threat, and he requested that he might speak at that meeting. The church was soon filled to overflowing. British officers crowded in and occupied the aisles, the pulpit steps and even the pulpit itself. Climbing a ladder on the outside, Warren stepped in at the pulpit window. Aided by his coolness and intrepidity, the officers made way for him. An awful stillness fell upon the multitude, and every man felt the palpitation of his own heart. Then the orator began, and there fell from his lips such a speech as it is seldom the lot of men to hear. With words that burned their way into the very soul he recounted the injustice the colonies had suffered at the hands of the mother country, and called upon the citizens to strike for liberty. He hurled defiance at the representatives of England, and denounced the Boston massacre in terrific language. The British officers said never a word. The speech ended, they quietly withdrew. They dared not make good their threat; but in three months from that time Joseph Warren lay dead on Bunker Hill.

Best Things Nearest.

The best things are nearest; breath in your nostrils, light in your eyes, flowers at your feet, duties at your hand, common work as it comes, certainly that daily duties and daily bread are the sweetest things of life.—Ruskin.

All is Vanity.

"This is a very fine dog, ma'am, and cheap at the price," said the dealer. "I've no doubt of it," she replied; "but I don't care to buy him until I'm sure he matches my new gown." Judge.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE little girl visitor left our house the other day in tears. No, we hadn't been mistreating her. She cried because she felt so badly to go. But we could claim none of the credit of these complimentary tears for ourselves. It all belonged to a fuzzy little ball of Maltose kittenhood, with which the little girl visitor had been having the time of her young life all the afternoon.

She was "simply crazy" about that kitten. She romped with it, played with it, cuddled it and called on us to admire its wonderful tricks for two solid hours, and when she was finally torn away her mother declared that she didn't know when she had been anywhere with Rita, when she had behaved so well, been so little trouble and enjoyed herself so much.

We ventured to ask if Rita had ever had a kitten of her own.

"Goodness, no," cried her mother. "I can't endure them myself. I've never had one in the house. I don't like any kind of pets, and I have never let my children have any. They are too much bother."

Don't you think "petness" children are an almost wicked subversion of the laws of child nature?

"I do."

I think pets should be a part of every child's development and education.

I believe that the care and friendship of these little dumb creatures will bring out desirable traits in every child.

For, if the children are properly restrained and guided in their treatment of the little pensioners, they are sure to learn patience, forbearance and the fine tenderness of the strong towards the weak.

If you should stop and ask a crowd of boys who were tying a tin can to a dog's tail, or otherwise tormenting some dumb creature, if any of them had a dog of his own at home, I don't believe you'd find that a single one had.

And what a never exhausted source of diversion and occupation for the busy idleness of childhood pets are! Guinea pigs, rabbits, white mice, puppies, kittens—lucky the child who has a full course in this school of pet ownership, with perhaps a few extras in the way of out of the ordinary pets thrown in! And, how I pity the child who has never had one kitten or white mouse to call his own.

Of course, the little girl visitor who spent such a happy afternoon with our kitten, would not have found such continual entertainment in a pet of her own, but I'm sure the possession of some pet would have given employment and interest to many otherwise dull moments.

"Oh, mother, I wish I had some little bits of baby guinea pigs, and he says he'll give me one if you'll let me have it. May I? May I may?"

"Oh, mother, I found the dearest little kitten on the street, and it followed me, and it hasn't got any home anywhere, and I know it's hungry. Please, oh, please, mother, can't I keep it?"

What mother hasn't listened a dozen times to breathless appeals like this, listened and perhaps started with grown-up conservatism to refuse?

But, oh, I hope she remembered her own youthful delight in the possession of some pet, and reconsidered.

I do not believe in caging any wild thing.

I do not believe in allowing children to be cruel—even unintentionally so—to their pets.

I do not believe in allowing children to acquire pets and then thrust the responsibility of them upon their mothers. They should be made to realize that ownership means responsibility, and obliged either to shoulder that responsibility or forego the ownership.

With these restrictions, I believe that every child should have at least one pet in the course of his childhood, and that he who doesn't has missed both part of his education and part of his natural right as a child.

MORE INQUIRIES AS TO WOMEN'S CONTEST

Plans For Winter Appeal to the Average Housewife—A Good Suggestion Made.

This morning's mail to the Contest Editor brought an excellent suggestion from an interested reader which is heartily approved of and is incorporated in the contest provisions.

The writer does not live in a house of her own but rents, and suggests that, as well as telling how the average housewife prepares for winter, that suggestions as to the construction of new houses, remodeling of old ones and conveniences in flats and apartment houses be made so that all classes of tenants may have a suitable storage place if they desire.

This is a good idea, and even the busy contractor, architect and property owner might find these suggestions valuable. Think this over and incorporate it in the article you are going to write for The Gazette on how to plan for the laying in of supplies for the winter.

Remember, these articles must not be longer than five hundred words and also written on one side of the paper only. They must be in the hands of the Contest Editor by November 15th, which gives you over a month to prepare them. Any suggestions, inquiries, should be addressed to the care of the Contest Editor.

Old Cornwell Ceremony.
Dancing is a part of a semi-religious ceremony held at St. Ives, Cornwall, on the day of the feast of St. James. The people dance the old Cornish "Flurry" dance and "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and then sing the "Old Hundredth." After that they have a banquet and small sums of money are distributed. The custom dates from a century ago, when a fund was established for the purpose by a man named Knill. It is known as the Knill ceremony.

A Many-Horned Cow.
A cow with 17 horns is the interesting monstrosity reported by a traveler from the south. The horns, we are told, protrude from the cow's back, each one resting on a joint in the spinal column. The farmer who owns the horned wonder is proud of her. She is proud of her gift, and out of thankfulness for her distinction produces more milk than any other cow on the farm.—Detroit Free Press.

Thought for Today

BY MRS. ROBERT M. L. COLLETTE

GROWING CHILDREN.

UP TO the time of entering school, children leading normal lives run and play, roll and climb, developing the great fundamental muscles of the trunk, the vital part of the body with its precious contents, the health of which are so dependent on vigorous exercise. When the child enters school this is changed. Unless the effect of hours of sitting is counteracted by abundant outdoor play, these great muscles become weak and flabby from disuse. The neck gets awry, chest hollow, shoulders round. But if it is suggested to children that they "straighten up" they are apt to think—if they do not say—"can't" or "don't care." Mountains of difficulty arise when self-consciousness is awakened. An unconscious change can usually be more easily secured.

This does not mean we should be too sentimental. While frequent kindly suggestion is more often successful, an occasional sharp rebuke is effective. I remember a teacher who never used corporal punishment, who controlled her school with a look, once took us all by surprise when she brought a ruler sharply across the humped shoulders of a good natured boy, whose pride and attention she had failed to reach in any other way. In so far as possible, however, we should reach children not by nagging, but through their interest. I knew a boy with stooping shoulders and slouching gait whose mother grew gray trying to make him straighten up. He suddenly developed into a handsome youth with upright shoulders and manly carriage through his interest in a military organization.

Inspire children with an ideal. Get the boys to admire the "Spirit of '76," the girls the picture of Queen Louise coming down the stairs. I wish every school could have copies of "Flying Mercury" and "Winged Victory" as examples of lightness, joy, and strength of body and bearing.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

AMOUNT OF MINERAL ELEMENTS NEEDED.

According to the new dietary standard announced by the department of agriculture, the estimated amount of mineral matter required by a man doing moderate muscular work, daily, is phosphoric acid, 3 to 4 grams; sulphuric acid, 2 to 3.5 grams; potassium oxide, 2 to 3 grams; sodium oxide, 4 to 6 grams; calcium oxide, .7 to 1.0 grams; magnesium oxide, .03 to 0.5 grams; iron, 0.005 to 0.012 grams; chlorine, 6 to 8 grams. Phosphorus is an important element in brain and nervous work and is found to be deficient in nervous diseases generally. The best source of phosphoric acid is the peanut uncooked, although it is contained largely in oats, whole wheat, beans and nuts. Chlorine, of which a large percentage is needed for the hydrochloric acid of the gastric secretion needed for the digestion of proteins, is contained fully in whole wheat, but is eliminated largely in the manufacture of fine white flour and also from rice in milling. Although the percentage of iron required is estimated to be very small, it is very important. It is important to note that the mineral elements of food can be assimilated only when furnished in organic form and that high temperature disorganizes them, more or less. For this reason, as well as because it is more digestible, uncooked cabbage is much better than cooked. Potassium is contained largely in the potato, in which it is less disorganized by boiling than by baking, which makes its starch more digestible. Unpolished rice, cooked in the fireless cooker, supplies all the mineral elements better than perhaps any other food which also contains a proper proportion of the other elements, except perhaps whole wheat, which requires more energy for its digestion than does rice.

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I suffered nearly all the time with headaches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. It made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so weak that I was obliged to wear crutches all the time. But now I do not have any of these troubles. I have a fine strong baby due now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. A. A. GILIS, Route 44, Dewittville, N.Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

THE CAVALIER BAG.

New York, N.Y.—The big bag, of tapestry, or embroidery, reminiscent of cavalier days, has developed an amazing variety of elegant shapes, splendidly begot and richly wrought with silken and jeweled, square, oblong or ovate styles, prevail, with sometimes a deep pointed effect, extending from top to bottom. The bag shown in the illustration is altogether unique of its kind, being round in outline. It is most elaborately embroidered, and suspended from heavy gilt cords, twisted into large knots like a chain. These are to be slipped across the shoulders, in carrying the bag. Festoons of this linked cord finish the lower edge of the pocket flap. Cabochons of gold cord mark the junction of these two sections of gold cord flaps at either side of the bag, and from them depend tassels of gold and silver cord, with ends of emerald beads.

The bag is in satin damask, in soft tones of rose and roseola with wonderful embroidery, in gold and silver, entwined with emerald jewels. Dainty fingers, at home, could readily fashion any style of beaded, beaded or embroidered cavalier bag. Copyright, 1911, by North American Press Syndicate.

AMERICAN OFFERING TO NON-CHRISTIANS

REV. ARTHUR J. BROWN TELLS OF VITAL ELEMENTS CHRISTIANITY HAS FOR THE ORIENTALS.

MINISTRY NEEDS MEN

Secularization of Education and Narrowing of Ministerial Sphere Are Causes for Present Need, Says Reverend Cochran.

Speaking for the cause of Foreign Missions, Rev. Arthur J. Brown of New York City, secretary of the board of foreign missions, gave a masterful address at the closing session of the Wisconsin Synod of the Presbyterian church last evening. He spoke in substance as follows:

"We are presented with the question, what have we to give to the non-Christian world? Annually we are pouring into the foreign field thirty millions of dollars, and many of us stop and question as to what we have to give that merits this expenditure. If you would ask the average man in public life what we have to offer, he would undoubtedly answer a civilization. It is true that we carry many untold and uncounted things, but the fact of the matter is that most of the countries which we have adapted to their needs. Would we call China and India uncivilized? Nations which have invented many original ways of doing things—when our ancestors were living in the caves of the European forests.

"We may dispute the idea that we are bringing civilization to these people for what we call civilization is only half Christian and half decent. It may come as a result of our work, but it is not a synonymous term with piety.

"Others say that we have a church to give the non-Christian; but the church is only the external of Christianity and it is not part of our mission to perpetuate secular divisions among these foreign peoples.

"It is stated that we have a creed to offer, but this is a misapprehension. Our creed is adapted to our own use and is not fitted to the people of India or China. No, we have neither a civilization, or a church, or a creed to give. I admit that we have but very few things which are worth while, but those few things are tremendously vital and important.

"What are some of these things? One of them is that we have an idea of God to communicate. We have a conception of the personality of God which is not present in the beliefs of China or any of the Oriental nations. Their conception of the supreme power is that the earth and air are filled with evil spirits to whom people are constantly planning sacrifices to all sorts of supernatural devices. We certainly have something to tell people who believe in such things, about our kind and loving Father who is anxious to help and to serve and who gave His only Son for us.

"And we have an idea of man to communicate. The Orientals have no idea of the power or respect for the person of a human being. The only reason why the Japanese preserved their life to make it an effective fighting body, not to conserve human life, they looked upon it as a machine. All over Asia there is this disrespect for human life; the child who falls in the river is allowed to drown; the man who is overcome in the street is passed unnoticed. The first hospitals, the first asylums for the deaf, the blind, or the insane, or homes for orphans, or unfortunate men and women, were established by the missionaries. They are endeavoring to establish the preeminently Christian teaching first recognized by the man of Nazareth that a man is a man and a human being irrespective of clothes or position. "And we have an idea of sin to communicate. We have a code of moral and righteous conduct giving an idea of sin in its relation to human society. There is no such idea in Asia. It is possible to be good Buddhist and a wicked man. We can teach the Orientals that certain actions are morally wrong, that is one of the things which is worth while.

"And after we tell men of their sin we have something else to tell them concerning salvation. There is not other faith which has a method of making a bad man good. It is within our power to point to the Son of God who was sacrificed to be an example to us making the power of God available for man.

"These are some of the elements of our faith which were exemplified in Jesus Christ, and we are debtors to the world to spread His message, for the interest in foreign missions is a measure of our faith."

Rev. Cochran in Address.

Rev. Jos. Wilson Cochran of Philadelphia, secretary of the education board, was the second speaker at the meeting last evening. He gave a very powerful and oratorical appeal for the consecration of more men to the ministry. He declared that the sources of supply were far in the rear of the demand for Christian leaders, and he reviewed some of the reasons which were advanced for this apparent lack of interest. One of these causes is the industrial possibilities of the present day, but in the opinion of the speaker this was not a real cause for in order to be a successful preacher for the cause of Christ, one must have a call, a burden resting on his soul demanding his service and the man who did not receive that call should not enter the ministry.

The opportunities for social service is another field which is acceptable to the church and is an agreeable aid. However reason, which is advanced, that of insufficient pay, is not worthy the consideration of a person imbued with the Christian spirit.

can be successfully combated by the church coming to the students. The charge that the ministry isn't a man's job, can be wiped out by the efforts of the church and the members, who by their attitude and aid can make the ministry the greatest calling of man.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Aunt Sarah is a suffrage dame, and she has more than local fame. She walks much like a grandeur, and wears her bonnet on her ear. She paws around like everything, and makes the weary wolden ring. When she comes near I give a whoop and the two of us jump the coop.

Aunts for she is wearing on the nerves; I can't appreciate her curves. She only has one thought, one dream; for her there's but one vital theme, one subject that will hit the spot—and that's her suffrage tommyrot. She may be green and good and wise, but when it comes to making pie or mixing up a Charlotte Russe, my good Aunt Sarah is a goose Aunt Jenny stays at home and makes the finest pies, the smoothest cakes. She says she never understood the ranting, shrieking, hysterical. She has a pleasant, gentle face; she makes her home a lovely place. And when she looks into our eyes, and sees the love that in them lies, she drops the banner for those rights for which she dunes it up at night. "While all the folks at home love me, I've all the rights I want," says she.

The Fatal Ring. An amazing story is told by the late head of the Paris morgue. Five times within his experience dead bodies brought to the morgue were found to be wearing a certain ring easily distinguishable by its strange design. It bore in Eastern characters this legend: "May whosoever wears this ring die a miserable death." M. Mace, late chief of the Paris police, vouches for the truth of this.

A Game of Chance. Good negatives are very largely a matter of accident, writes Allen Edger-ton, in the Craftsman. Given the utmost care and wisdom in the selection of subjects and time, it is nevertheless true that the novice may secure with his kodak a more artistic negative than the trained veteran, and that the veteran himself will get the most artistic negative largely as a result of chance.

Songbirds Used for Food. A single dealer in Madrid sells annually 30,000 larks, finches and other small birds for food, and the total number thus consumed is estimated at a million in that city alone.

SOCIAL CRISIS

By Rev. Dr. George W. Anderson
Pastor of Union Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis.

RENT—Jacob was a plain man dwelling among the tents; and as a plain man that thou prevailed.

As men do not pick diamonds from trees, but rather search for them among the barren stones and soil, so God seeks for great leaders, not among the exalted, but from the great mass of common folk. Desiring to start a new race preparatory to Christ's coming, he searched among the common ones of Chaldea until he found Abraham, a worshiper of idols, and sent him forth not only to be the father of the Jewish race, but of the three greatest forms of monotheistic religion the world has ever known. God searched for an emancipator and he found Moses, an alien, born in servitude, and sent him forth to lay the foundations of civilization.

Desiring to reveal the power of the strong will and the indomitable ambition, he searched among the open fields until he found Jacob, a plain man, dwelling among tents, and sent him forth as a prince of God.

The story of Jacob is the story of ambition, bad and good, laying hold of every means to meet its end; filled with mingled pathos and joy. As the bad ambition it sends its harvest of sorrow, and as a holy ambition its harvest of joy. In no life is the failure of ungodly ambition and the success of righteous ambition more marked.

Jacob desired to rule, to lift himself out of the common place, to become a prince among men, and failing to realize the difference between right and wrong, brought dismal failure. He believed that birthright gave the power to rule, and unjustly sought to secure one not his own.

At the doorway of a weather-beaten tent he sat one evening, a mere lad. The lengthening shadows were silently wrapping the landscape with haze. Before him burned a blazing fire that laughed at the thickening shadows with defiance, cast its rich glow on his clear-cut features and caused the tent folds to stand out distinct against the dull background.

The atmosphere is fragrant with the steam of cooking porridge, which he idly stirred. He was dreaming of leadership, when out from the shadows came one staggering with weakness and hunger and crying out for food. Here was the age-long problem of supply and demand.

Jacob, being careful, shrewd, far-sighted, had provided for a time, of need. Esau, careless, indifferent, wandering in disposition had made no such provision. It was strength pitted against weakness. Strength said: "What I have is mine; and if any would seek it, let him pay my price."

There is only one thing that Esau had, his birthright, the very thing that Jacob seeks. And in that hour the voice of ambition says: "Put your price high, young man. Get all you can." And Jacob, looking at his starving brother, said: "I will give you to eat if you will give me your birthright." Faint with weakness and hunger, Esau made the bargain.

With uplifted hands Esau gives to Jacob that which Jacob had no right to own, but possessed solely through the power of capital. Now, Jacob is a shrewd and rich man in the sight of the world. He has deceived his brother, has gotten his brother's blessing, and he is the priest of the community.

Behold him several days after fleeing in the darkness from his brother, an exile and empty handed. Why? Because money and power gotten by unrighteous methods never enrich. Behold Jacob in the open fields, with no bed save sand, no pillow save stones, no covering save the open sky, the picture of a thousand characters of history.

Then comes the vision of Jacob, the ladder reaching up to heaven and the angels ascending and descending. Jacob sees that while ungodly ambition brought failure, godly ambition could lift him up to God. The angels ascend and descend; they go up only that they might come down. Ambition should lead a man up, only that, in the heights, he may gain power and strength to come back into the lowly fields and serve his fellow man. He must climb the ladder to God only that he may come back to serve those who need help.

A man becomes a prince, not through birthright, but through service. Esau came with his armies to catch the fleeing Jacob, but Jacob, having wrestled with the angel, comes to meet his brother with arms extended, not to rule but to serve. And Esau, beholding the change in his brother, leaps from his horse and embraces Jacob. Jacob has now become the prince of his own people, not through ambition to rule, but to serve.

Courage.
It is not moral courage that makes a man face the gallows without a quiver; it is the callousness of sin. This false idea of bravado and courage is leading multitudes of young men to the pit.—Rev. W. H. Gilest, Baptist, San Diego.

Helping.
When you give help to him who is down and out you project your life. If you cannot help another your life is not worth much.—Rev. W. H. Gilest, Baptist, Portland, Ore.

A Plain Inquiry.
"Warden, what are most of these men doing here?" "Principally doing time, madam."

ARTHUR B. FARWELL

JAMES WILSON

TROUBLE BREWING FOR BREWERS.

Chicago Ill.—Lake Daniel in the Lions' Den, Alfred Barrage Farwell, reformer, endeavored to secure membership in the Brewers' Convention as a delegate, and to there address them in behalf of the Anti-Saloon League. His application has been turned down and he will not appear at the Brewers' Convention. It was Mr. Farwell who, last week, condemned

James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, for accepting the office of Honorary President of the Brewers' Congress, and issued a prayer which all churches were requested to repeat condemning the Congress and wishing a failure. Secretary Wilson has maintained his attitude that the brewing of beer is an industry recognized in government circles and therefore cannot be discriminated against officially.

As She Saw the Notes.

When my daughter was 4 years old she sat gazing at the notes on a piece of music, when she suddenly looked up and said: "Mamma, here's a lot of little boys on a wire fence," and, looking down at it, said, after a moment's thought, "and some of 'em got huts on."—Exchange.

Coming of Autumn.

Sometimes autumn may be perceived even in the early days of July. There is no other feeling like that caused by this faint, doubtful yet real perception, or rather prophecy, of the year's decay, so deliciously sweet and sad at the same time.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Confused.

Bacon—"The discovery was made in Canada, a year or so ago, that the musk rat could be treated and dyed to imitate wool so nearly as to avoid detection." Egbert—"I don't care how nice they are treated, I don't believe a muskrat could ever burk like a seal."—Youkers Statesman.

Passing of the Label.

Suit cases and trunks of returning travelers are posted over this year with relatively few of the hotel labels which have long been the particular pride of tourists. The reason given is that the European hotel proprietors are now abandoning the baggage label as a form of advertisement, in favor of picture cards, with which they supply their guests.—Youth's Companion.

Do, Don't Talk.

Just do a thing and don't talk about it. This is the great secret of success in all enterprises. Talk means discussion; discussion means irritation; irritation means opposition, and opposition means hindrance always whether you are right or wrong.—Sarah Grand.

Reached by Telephone Number.

A man in the Island of Capri did not know the address of his friend in New York, but he knew his telephone number to be "800—It East, New York." So he sent a registered package to this address and it was promptly delivered.

Miss Green's Brother an' His Farm

Ain't some men the beatifist thins? Why of I'd a knowed it I wouldn't hev went. It all come about my runnin' in 'ese Miss Green, she's the one who giv me the recipe for that one-egg cake. Well, her brother from Milton Junction wuz there an he wuz bemoanin' the fact that he couldn't sell his farm an come into the city I live.

Said he's put his farm in the hands of old man Perkins an Bill Lo well as well as Abe Ketchum an vary one on em hed a call for a farm all summer.

I sez to him, sez I, "Don't y ou never see the Gazette?" "Sartinly," sez he, "every day but Sunday, and we don't git no mail that day." "Well," sez I, "didn't it never enter yore old head that thousands of people in Rock county read that same paper?" "Sure," sez he, "but that ain't got nothin to do with my farm." "Maybe not," sez I, "but it's going to," and with that I foned right down to the Gazette office an they sent a man out to see Miss Green's brother. That was a Tuesday an here it is Saturday an Miss Green's just got a letter from him sayin' he's sold out silk an clean an is comin to spend the winter with her.

Course, now I can't run in so freely and as I said in the beginin of I'd knowed it I wouldn't hev went, I cenn ferget to ask her to set me that new pattern of hating.

Auntie Want.

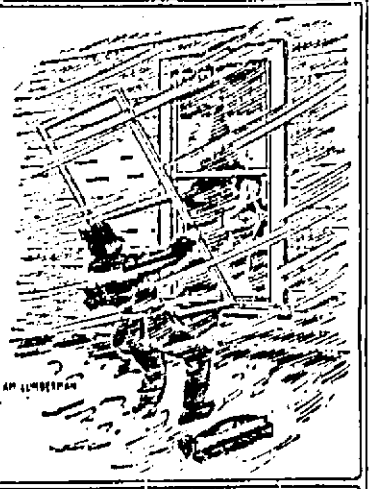

What weapon?

The Judgment of Women.
I have been beloved by the four women whose love was of the most comfort to me; my mother, my sister, my wife and my daughter. I have had the better part, and it will not be taken from me; for I often fancy that the judgments which will be passed upon me in the valley of Jehoshaphat will be neither more nor less than those of women, countersigned by the Almighty.—Ernest Renan.

Man's Independence.
No iron chain nor outward force of any kind could ever compel the soul of man to believe or to disbelieve; it is his own indefeasible right, that judgment of his; he will reign and believe thereby the grace of God alone!—Thomas Carlyle.

Well—Let Them Go.

Magnetic Influence.
People with magnetic bodies are not unknown and six years ago doctors discovered at Vladikavkaz, in the Caucasus, in girl of twelve, whose body was practically a magnet. According to a medico who examined her, every object which she approached would move. Once she walked close to a kitchen dresser, and in an instant the crockery upon it began to dance. On another occasion a heavy bottle standing upon a table was raised in the air when the magnetic maiden went near it.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Oct. 13, 1871.—Eight miles and a quarter from this courthouse in Chicago, twenty-four hours after the fire started, such was the lurid brightness, that "a quarter to nine," was read on the face of a watch in the open street, and not a star shining in the heavens.

She Knew What to Do.
A North side matron, directing an electric coupe for the first time, ventured far out on the South side and punctured a tire. She drove home on the rim and came in for a scolding from her husband.
"Never drive the electric with a busted tire," said he. "It will ruin the tire, and tire cost money."
Another puncture followed a few days later, but this time she was not far from home.
Also this time she did not drive the rest of the way.
She sat in her chariot and six boys pushed her home.—Chicago Post.

The Perpetual Change.
The things of the world are ever rising and falling, and in perpetual change; and this change must be according to the will of God, as he has bestowed upon man neither the wisdom nor the power to enable him to check it. The great lesson in these things is that man must strengthen himself doubly at such times to fulfill his duty, and to do what is right, and must seek his happiness and inward peace from objects which cannot be taken away from him.—William von Humboldt.

The Girl from His Town

When an hour later he came out of the Carlton he was prepared for the life of the evening. He stopped at the telephone desk and sent a telegram to Ruggles on the Lusitania:

"Can't come yet awhile; am engaged to be married to the Duchess of Breakwater."

He wrote this out in full and the man at the Marconi "sat up" and smiled as he wrote. With Letty Lane's badly written note in his pocket, and wondering very much at her summons of him, Dan drove to the Oglet, and at the end of the third act went back of the scenes. There were several people in her dressing-room. Higgins was looking her into a white bodice and Miss Lane, before her glass, was putting the rouge on her lips.

"Hello, you," she nodded to Dan. "I am awfully sorry not to have shown up at five. Just got your note. Just got in at the hotel; been out of town all day."

Dan saw that none of the people in the room was familiar to him, and that they were out of place in the pretty broadened nest. One of them was a Jew, a small man with a glass eye, whose fixed stare rested on Miss Lane, who had kept on his overcoat, and his derby hat hung on the back of his head.

"Give Mr. Cohen the box, Higgins," Miss Lane directed, and bending forward, brought her small face close to the glass, and her hands trembled as she handled the rouge stick.

Mr. Cohen in one hand held a string of pearls that fell through his fat fingers, as if eager to escape from them. Higgins obediently placed a small box in his hand.

"Take it and get out of here," she ordered Cohen. "Miss Lane has only got five minutes."

Cohen turned the stub of his cigar in his mouth unpleasantly without taking the trouble to remove it. "I'll take box," he said rapidly, "and when I get good and ready I'll get out of here, but not before."

"Now see here," Blair began, but Miss Lane, who had finished her task, motioned him to be quiet.

"Please go out, Mr. Blair," she said. "Please go out. Mr. Cohen is here on business and I really can't see anybody just now."

Behind the Jew Higgins looked up at Dan and he understood—but he didn't heed her warning; nothing would have induced him to leave Letty Lane like this.

"I'm not going, though, Miss Lane," he said frankly. "I've got an appointment with you and I'm going to stay." As he did so the other people in the room took form for him: a blind beggar with a stick in his hand, and by his side a small child wrapped in a shawl. With relief Dan saw that Pontotowsky was absent from the party.

On the dressing-table, "Please," she cried to Dan, "let me have the pleasure of sending this man out of my room. You can go, Cohen, and go in a hurry, too."

The Jew stuffed the pearls in his pocket and went by Dan hurriedly, although he feared the young man intended to help him. But Dan stopped him:

"Before this deal goes through I want you to tell me why you are—"

Miss Lane broke in: "My gracious heavens! Can't I even sell my jewels without being bossed? What business is it of yours, Mr. Blair? Let the man go, and go all or you—all of you, Higgins, send them out."

The blind man and the child stirred, too, at this outburst. The little girl wore a miserable hat, a wreck of a hat, in which shook a feather like a broken mast. The rest of her garments seemed made of the elements of dirt and mud—mere flags of distress, and the odor of the poor filled the room: over the perfume and scent and smell of stage properties, this miserable smell of stage properties, this miserable smell held its own.

"Come, Daddy," whispered the child timidly, "come along."

"Oh, no, not you, not you," Letty Lane said.

Job Cohen crawled out with ten thousand pounds' worth of pearls in his pockets, and as soon as the door had closed the actress took up the roll of notes.

"Come here," she said to the child. "Now you can take your father to the home I told you of. It is nice and comfortable—they will treat his eyes there."

"Miss Lane—Miss Lane!" called the puge boy.

"Never mind that," said the actress. "It is a long wait this act. I don't go on yet."

Higgins went to the door and opened it and stood a moment, then disappeared into the side scenes.

Letty Lane ruffled the pile of banknotes and without looking drew out two or three bills, putting them into the child's hands. "Don't you lose them; stuff them down; this will keep you and your father for a couple of years. Take care of it. You are quite rich now. Don't get robbed."

The child tremblingly folded the notes and hid them among her rags. The tears of happiness were struggling over her face. She said finally, finding no place to stow away her riches, "I expect I'd best put them in daddy's pocket."

And Dan came to her aid; taking the notes from her, he folded and put them inside the clothes of the old beggar.

"How Does It Feel to Stand There and Hear Them Clap Like a Thunder Storm and Call Your Name?"

were postcards and little coral caps with feathers as bonbonnières. They called her out before the curtain a dozen times, and each time Dan wanted to cry "Mercy" for her. He felt as though this little act had established a friendship between them; and his hands clenched as he thought of Pontotowsky, and he tried to recall that he was an engaged man. He had an idea that Letty Lane was looking for him through the performance. She flashed in a storm of applause, and flowers were strewn upon her, and Dan found himself, in spite of his resolution, going back into the wings.

This time two or three cards were sent in. One by one he saw the visitors refused, and Dan, without any formality, himself knocked at Letty Lane's small door, which Higgins opened, looked back over her shoulder to give him a name to her mistress, and said to Dan confidently, "Well, sir; just wait a bit." Her lips were affable, and in a few moments, to Dan's astonished delight, the actress herself appeared, a big scarf over her head and her body enveloped in her snowy cloak, and he understood with a leap of his heart that she had singled him out to take her home.

She went before him through the wings to the stage entrance, which he opened for her, and she passed out before him into the fog and the mist. For the first time Blair followed her through the crowd, which was a big one on this night. On the one side waited the poor, who wished her many blessings, and on the other side her admirers, whose thoughts were quite different. Something of this flashed through Dan's mind—and in that moment he touched the serious part of life for the first time.

In Letty Lane's motor, the small electric light lit over her head and the flower vase empty, he sat beside the fragrant human creature, who London adored, and knew his place would have been envied by many a man.

"I took your friends to their place all right," he told her, "and I'm going to see them myself tomorrow. I advised the girl not to get married for her money. Say, this is awfully nice of you to let me take you home!"

She seemed small in her corner. "You were great tonight," Dan went on, "simply great! Wasn't the crowd crazy about you, though? How does it feel to stand there and hear them clap like a thunderstorm and call your name?"

"She replied with effort. "It was a nice audience, wasn't it? Oh, I don't know how it feels. It is rather stimulating. How's the other boy?" she asked abruptly, and when Dan had said that Ruggles had left him alone in London, she turned and laughed a little.

"Dan asked her why she had sent for him today. "I'm mighty sorry I was out of town," he said warmly. "Just to think you should have wanted me to do something for you and I didn't turn up. You know I would be glad to do anything. What was it? Won't you tell me what it was?"

"The Jew did it for me."

And Dan exclaimed: "It made me simply sick to see that animal in your room. I would have kicked him out if I hadn't thought that it would make an unpleasant scene for you. We have passed the Savoy," he looked out of the window, and Letty Lane replied: "I told the driver to go to the Carlton first."

She was talking him home then! "Well, you've got to come in and have some supper with me in that case," he cried eagerly, and she told him that she had taken him home because she knew that Mr. Ruggles would approve.

"Not much you won't," he said, and put his hand on the speaking tube, but she stopped him.

"Don't give any orders in my motor, Mr. Blair. You sit still where you are."

"Do you think that I am such a simple youth that I—"

Letty Lane with a gesture of supreme ennui said to him impatiently: "Oh, I just think I am pretty nearly tired to death; don't bother me. I want my own way."

Her voice and her gesture, her beauty and her indifference, her sort of vague lack of interest in him and in everything, put the boy, full of life as he was, out of case, but he ventured, after a second:

"Won't you please tell me what you wanted me to do this afternoon?"

"Why, I was hard up, that's all," she said. "I have used all my salary for two months and I couldn't pay my bill at the Savoy."

"Lord!" he said fervently, "why didn't you—"

"I did. Like a fool I sent for you the first thing, but I was awfully glad when five o'clock came and you didn't turn up. Please don't bother or speak of it again."

And burning with curiosity as to what part Pontotowsky played in her life, Dan sat quiet, not venturing to put to her any more questions. She seemed so tired and so overcome by her own thoughts. When they had turned down toward the hotel, however, he decided that he must in honor tell her his news.

"Got some news to tell you," he exclaimed abruptly. "Want you to congratulate me. I'm engaged to be married to the Duchess of Breakwater. She happens to be a great admirer of your voice."

The actress turned sharply to him and in the dark he could see her little, white face. The covering over her head fell back and she exclaimed:

"Heavens! and impulsively put her hands out over his. "Do you really mean what you say?"

"Yes," he nodded surprisedly. "What do you look like that for?"

Letty Lane arranged her scarf and then drew back from him and laughed.

GROWS HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Bald-headed People May Get a New Chance in Life.

In these days when youth is the moving factor in business, when a man makes his mark at thirty-five and is ready to retire at forty-five when business houses pension the man we call "middle aged," rather than allow his lagging influence to intrude upon the commercial rush, a bald head is almost fatal to any man's hopes. The following must therefore prove interesting to people who are losing their hair or who are bald.

Resorcin is one of the latest and most effective germ killers discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its nutriment, and also creates a clean and healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new growth.

Pilocarpin is a well-known agent for restoring the hair to its natural color, where the loss of color has been due to a disease of the scalp. Yet, it is not a coloring matter or dye.

The Return from the Captivity. Ezra. 1:1-11:34-70.

Golden Text—He retaineth not his anger forever, because he delighteth in mercy. Micah, vii:18.

(1) Verses 1-2—Who was King Cyrus and what were his character and achievements?

(2) Where were the Jews as a people, at the opening of this lesson, and what were the circumstances which took them there?

(3) How do you account for it that Cyrus, immediately when he began to reign over Babylon decided to release the Jewish captives and to rebuild the Temple at Jerusalem?

(4) What reason can you assign for a king, not a Jew, having such a direct message from God?

(5) If the religious history of every nation from the beginning of time could be fully known, should we have in evidence a repetition of Bible history?

(6) Verses 3-4—What clause of people do we depend on chiefly, to build churches and support missionary work?

(7) What motive does Cyrus appeal to, for building the Temple at Jerusalem?

(8) What good is accomplished by the vast sums of money spent in building and supporting churches?

(9) If all people are obligated to give money to support the cause of religion, what is the least they should give?

(10) Verses 5-6—Are ministers today under obligations to take the lead by precept and example in religious enterprises, without waiting for any special additional leading?

(11) When persons willingly help in God's cause, are they without exception, "them whose spirit God had raised?"

(12) When we undertake giving or doing for the cause of God, why is it safe to conclude that God specially appointed us thereto?

(13) Verses 7-11—What in brief, were the circumstances which brought the gold and silver vessels to Babylon from the first Temple at Jerusalem?

(14) When a man gives lavishly of precious treasures to the cause of God is that always, or generally, a proof of his love for God?

(15) Chap. II, Verses 64-70—What number of people returned to Jerusalem, and what was the number originally carried away to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar? (See 2 Kings xxiv:1.)

(16) What were the religious and financial conditions of the people when they were originally deported, and when they returned?

(17) What general effect had their captivity had upon them?

(18) Which ministers more to the character of the average man, prosperity or adversity? (This is one of the questions that may be answered, in writing by members of the club.)

Lesson for Sunday, Oct. 22nd, 1911. The Foundation of the Second Temple. Ezra. 1:1-11:34-70.

Of all American Inventions the National Cash Register is the widest used.

It is found wherever men are found buying and selling in every civilized country on the globe. It speaks the universal language of efficiency.

It thinks with a brain of steel—it never forgets a detail of a transaction.

No single device ever benefited so many people in so many ways. It has made a million merchants better business men—educated them in system and method. It has made a million storeful of clerks dependable.

It has helped to reduce retail prices by stopping leaks and checking losses.

The National Cash Register protects the customer, the merchant and his employees.

Over One Million Have Been Sold The National Cash Register Co., Dayton, Ohio A. M. LOCKARD, Sales Agent, 205 King Street, Madison, Wis.

NOTHING YOU HAVE TO DO IN THIS WORLD IS GOOD ENOUGH IF THERE'S SOMETHING BETTER TO DO OR GET.

WHENEVER you think of this store, think of it as a quality store; a place where the finest goods are sold; where high prices--we're not afraid to say high prices--are common; the important thing about a price is to get goods that are really worth it.

THERE'S no merchandise too good or too fine or too costly; we have the best, and sell it. Whether the prices are high or low is always a matter of quality; we give you big value; there's true economy in such goods.

THE choicest fabrics gathered from the best weavers of England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, Belgium, France, America; wherever fine cloths are woven. The styles, the models, the patterns and colorings are distinctive, exclusive, classy. We guarantee you satisfaction, not because we think there is any doubt about it, but because we think there isn't. You'll find here the most remarkable stock of fine suits and overcoats in Southern Wisconsin. You'll pay $35 and more for them; and whatever you pay, you'll get a big money's-worth value.

New models; you don't know how stylish they are until you see these; new button through; body-tracing and box; belted back; Chesterfield; and ulsterette with adjustable collar; slip-on raincoats; a new English box overcoat, extremely swagger. New ideas in unlined overcoats, made from foreign weaves, rough, in browns and grays; a big hit. Overcoats $18 to $35 in fall, medium and heavy-weights

Remarkable Values at $25

You'll probably consider $25 as a good average price for a suit or overcoat; it is; but we're not content with a good average quality for $25. We put a lot more value into these suits and overcoats at $25 than you'll find for the money anywhere else on earth. It's a feature of our selling that we're rather proud of; we know values pretty well; these are just remarkable. $25
Suits and Overcoats; all styles, all weaves, all colors, all sizes.....

Good Clothes at $15 For You

You can get suits and overcoats here at $15 also; we don't pretend they're the best we have; nor that they're as good as the higher priced. We know, however, that they're the best $15 worth you ever had; and that the man who pays $15 for one of 'em is going to be well satisfied with it, unless he's a man who ought to spend more.

Great Things for Young Men Here

Hart Schaffner & Marx new Shapemaker is one of the favorites; the Varsity is another. A new English style, "Piccadilly," is in smart grays, tans, browns, blue-grays; "Aviator" is another. In Overcoats a big variety. $15 to $35
